

To curtail XM Radio's effort to expand services and competition when the industry is consolidating and becoming less competitive, more centrally controlled by a very small group of men, would be a crime! It is the FCC's job and purpose to encourage competition, broaden services, expand choices and resist being influenced by a few power hungry men.

The FCC is at the vanguard of protecting American rights and the freedom of speech. If you fail to do that then you have contributed to the downfall of the American way of life.

The FCC is to do what is right and not be overcome by the power mongers. I hope that you maintain the strength of character and trust that we all have in you.

Respectfully,
Jim More
